

Free University of Scania

Free University of Scania (FUS) is a university devoted to the creation and distribution of scientific knowledge.

Free University of Scania (FUS) is truly Free, i.e., independent of everything, except its members. FUS is independent and represents high standards. It is not certified since it does not need it and since certification creates dependency. FUS is recognised, not by documents, diplomas and bureaucratic evaluations, but by the performance of its members.

Free University of Scania (FUS) have the motto: 'Sapere aude, dicere aude', i.e., 'Dare to know, dare to tell'. Everything is possible to claim and to investigate, when using a critical approach and scientific methods to support the claim. The results that are created will, without fear or self-interest, be disseminated in society.

Free University of Scania consist of its members and are governed by the members, using the principle of collegium governance. Yet, it does not recognise 'Primus Inter Pares', i.e., 'First among equals', since all present experience of today's universities show that the 'equals' becomes subordinated.

Free University of Scania exists through its members. However, FUS can be reached through different means, such as
